COUNTY FIGHTS UPPER RIVER DAM

PROMISE TO ACT ON LAW TUESDAY

Health Department Asks Rules to Block Mass Porker Invasion

Smelly hog farms, being forced out of Los Angeles county, are about to descend upon Orange county.

Apprized of the danger, supervisors today promised to act next Tuesday on an emergency ordinance suggested by the county planning commission to restrict hog farms until zoning ordinances may be adopted.

Jules Markel, chairman of the planning commission, told the board today that Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, is being besieged with requests for permits to operate hog farms, on which garbage, largely from Los Angeles, will be fed.

Dr. Sutherland believes, said Markel, that the discretion should lie with the board of supervisors. The proposed ordinance, now being studied by District Attorney W. F. Menton, sets up sanitary and other restrictions, and requires hog farm applicants to come before the board of supervisors for public hearings before permits can be issued.

Meanwhile Midway City, Garden Grove and Westminster, most seriously menaced by the hog farm migration, and Lemon Heights and Yorba Linda are holding hearings in preparation for county zoning laws.

One of the factors in each community would be a rule against hog farms, Markel said. The emergency ordinance would delay establishment of farms until the zoning regulations can go into effect.

Markel said there are 14 hog ranches in the county feeding an estimated 18,500 hogs. Of these only 3850 are fed on Orange county garbage, the remainder being imported.

Several years ago a county ordinance prohibiting importation of garbage was found unconstitutional.

BALDWIN TIES ARE SEVERED

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Wilson Baldwin, former Indianapolis, Ind., heiress, was granted an annulment of her marriage to Baldwin M. Baldwin, wealthy and socially prominent grandson of the late California pioneer, E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, in district court here today.

The surprise annulment suit was filed by Mrs. Baldwin this morning. In it she alleged that at the time of her marriage, March 8, 1933, to the wealthy young Californian, he had "another wife living" although they both believed an European divorce he had obtained previously to be valid.

Charges Nurses' Bills Padded

Padding of medical bills for county hospital nurses stricken with infantile paralysis was charged today by Supervisor Steele Finley.

He said he had checked bills and found the costs of certain pills billed to the county were greatly in excess of the regular retail price.

Called Kidnap

Dr. William Eustice (above), Elizabeth, Ill., dentist, was released on $84,000 bond in Chicago after being booked on a kidnapping charge in connection with the marriage of his daughter, Margaret, to Quin O'Brien, assistant city corporation counsel of Chicago. O'Brien charged he was kidnapped and forced to marry the girl by a "ringer." The girl and her mother were being sought. Police said two others had confessed participating in the kidnapping. OIL LAWSUIT IS SETTLED

Standard to Get $18,000 From Defendant in Local Suit

Standard Oil company today settled out of court for about $18,000 its $175,000 slant drilling suit against Southern California Drilling company.

The settlement brought to an end a case which already has occupied 14 days and threatened to continue for two more months.

Attorneys arranged the settlement this morning after defense counsel, led by Roland G. Swaffield of Long Beach, attacked the validity of underground surveys on which the case was based.

While refusing to give the exact terms of the settlement, attorneys reported that Southern California Drilling company agreed to pay Standard for the production of Severns No. 1 well on the same basis that settlements have been made with the state for oil taken from the tideland pool.

This would amount to about $17,000 to $18,000 on oil so far produced, and would equal about 10 per cent of the value of future production.

Southern California Drilling company also agreed to pay Standard's costs in the suit, amounting to about $30,000.

Severns Drilling company, represented by J. B. Tucker of Santa Ana and C. F. Culver; D. H. Disher, driller, represented by Charles Swanner of Santa Ana; and other minor defendants, were not required to pay under the settlement.

Stanley Reinhaus, Santa Ana attorney, was associated with Lawler as counsel for Standard Oil.

H. B. BATTLES FOR CUT ON STATE OIL

Employs Attorneys to Work for Tideland Royalties

First steps in a campaign to obtain a percentage of the huge oil pool lying off the county coast were taken by the Huntington Beach city council last night when a group of Long Beach attorneys was retained to assist in the fight.

The firm of Denio, Hart, Taudman and Simpson will aid City Attorney Ray Overacker in all suits and legal matters pertaining to the huge tideland oil pool and also in preparation of a freeholder's charter for the city, it was decided.

Payment of the attorneys will be made on a sliding scale, councilmen voted, with a $2500 cash retainer fee and 10 per cent of the amount recovered for the first two years; 15 per cent for the following three years and 20 per cent for the next 10 years.

First action in the Huntington Beach fight will be a survey of legal rights of the city in the oil pool. After these rights have been established a method of procedure will be outlined and the actual move to gain a percentage of the oil started.

Action may be taken by the council next Monday night concerning the freeholder's charter, it was decided. If an acceptable charter is prepared, the councilmen may set a date for a vote on the matter. The charter would make the city independent of the state legislature as to internal affairs.

ITALY WAVES MAILED FIST

ROME. (AP)—Italy decreed 37 years of military fitness for every man in the kingdom today in a mailed fist answer to the challenge of Great Britain's vast defense rearmament.

Ordering virtually a lifetime of "integral militarization" for its citizens—throughout the ages of 18 to 55—the Grand Fascist council "definitely" scouted even the "remote possibility of armament limitation" and fashioned a five-point program to keep Italy strong.

Proposed laws which would force Italians to marry, have children and produce soldiers will be discussed by the council tomorrow night. Giuseppe Bottai, the minister of education, then will outline the proposals, which would embrace confiscatory taxation for the children.

At the same time, the official communique stressed the "realistic" cooperation of Italy with the Fascist bloc of nations, particularly Nazi Germany.

In addition to what was generally considered the direct answer to British rearmament, a veiled hint to Britain to consider Italian power in her foreign program was seen in the council's comment on the Anglo-Italian gentlemen's agreement.

Trash Will Be Removed From Graves

Disgraceful conditions at Orange county's Potter's field, revealed recently by The Journal, will be corrected within a few days, Supervisor N. E. West reported today.

Appointed by the board of supervisors to look into the matter, West has given instructions to the county cemetery district No. 1 to clean up and maintain the burying ground for indigents, West said.

West said he had written a letter to James B. Ull, chairman of the cemetery district board of directors, to have the field cleaned up and kept neat, billing the county for the expenses.

A Journal reporter brought the conditions to light when he visited the burying ground and found it grown to weeds and littered with cans and trash.

Such conditions were due in part to a misunderstanding, West said. He said he found that the board had ordered a cleanup and maintenance program two years ago, intending to mean regular maintenance. The cemetery directors made a cleanup at that time but did not provide for regular maintenance.

FIVE STATES FEEL QUAKE

COLUMBUS, Ohio. (AP)—Earth tremors were felt in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and Michigan between 9:45 and 9:50 a. m., today, but reports indicated there was no damage.

Accompanied by a slight rumbling in some districts, the quiver shook buildings and caused the movement of desks and chairs. Dishes in homes were knocked to the floor.

The tremor was felt through the west, central and northern portions of Ohio. Shocks lasted about two minutes.

School children at Zanesfield in Logan county were dismissed. "Those things are common," said Wilbur Stout, geologist at Ohio State university. "They are just a readjustment of the outer layers of rock."

Business men in Washington courthouse said buildings rocked several minutes.

Occupants of offices in Springfield said desks were moved several inches. Reports of the tremor also came from Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, Akron, Lima, Lorain, Bellefontaine, Findlay and Canton.

Stout said the earth shocks could be expected at intervals.

PLANS DIVE OFF S. F. BRIDGE

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—If Tom Conroy makes his proposed 218-foot dive from the San Francisco-Oakland bridge, it will be his last in the opinion of Dr. J. C. Geiger, San Francisco health officer.

Dr. Geiger said Conroy would have to hit the water at "just the right angle" to survive and added: "It is almost impossible for a diver to control the angle of his descent from such a height."

Capt. Rudy Schmoke, head of the bridge's highway patrol unit, reiterated: "There will be no dive." Conroy, 28-year-old taxicab driver, said he wanted to make the dive to win a $500 bet.

Welfare Clients Are Given 'Raise'

County welfare clients today got a "new deal" as the county board of supervisors raised food budget limits by 17 per cent.

Jack Snow, director of social welfare, told the board a state survey showed food prices are up by that amount, and asked permission to allow clients that much additional.

Monthly allowances for food have ranged from $9 to $11 per person.

ALARMED BY INCREASING AIR UNITS

Program of Chemical Warfare Decided as Parity Solution

TOKYO. (AP)—Japan's army and navy ministers disclosed to the diet today a program of stress on chemical warfare and vigorous plans to meet the "menace" of increased United States air units in the Pacific.

When Japan's army and naval air force rearmament program is finished, said Navy Minister Mitsumasa Yonai, Japan need not "fear" the United States for three years.

The naval minister made his statement during a discussion of the tactics of a naval war in the Pacific that brought out such detailed points the budget subcommittee decided to go into secret session to continue the debate on the war appropriations.

Shortly before Admiral Yonai took the floor of the diet, the minister of war, General Gen Sugiyama, disclosed the Japanese army was concentrating on gas and other chemicals as war weapons to make up for numerical inferiority.

Japan, the naval minister said, was ready to accept an invitation from a third power to discuss arms limitation with the United States but would not propose such a parity unless there seemed to be a definite prospect for an amicable settlement.

"In the event the United States increases its air force in Alaska, the Aleutian Islands, Hawaii and other Pacific possessions," Admiral Yonai said, "Japan will be menaced."

"Some think the air force is more powerful than the warships, but our navy regards the air force as an auxiliary to the fleet, both being indispensable."

"If Japan's third replenishment plan for the navy and the naval air force is completed, there need be no fear of the United States for the next three years."

Vice-Admiral Noritake Toyoda, chief of the naval affairs bureau, said the replenishment program was based on the Washington and London naval treaties.

CONVICT NINE 'LEGION' MEN

DETROIT. (AP)—Recorder's Judge John V. Brennan today convicted nine men, alleged to be Black Legion members, on charges of conspiring to kill Arthur L. Kingsley, newspaper publisher of suburban Highland Park.

Convicted were N. Ray Markland, former mayor of Highland Park; Arthur F. Lupp, sr., named by investigators as commander of the secret society in Michigan; Alvis Clark, Willard Foster, Matthis Gunn, Roy Hepper, Frank Howard, Hubert James and Rudyard K. Wellman.

Judge Brennan conducted the trial, which lasted a month, without a jury. The prosecution charged the men plotted to shoot Kingsley in 1933 because of his political opposition to Markland, who then was mayor. The nine will be sentenced next Tuesday.

Wiring of Werner Office Related

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A sound technician, M. R. Watrous, told from the witness stand today in the second trial of Erwin P. Werner and his wife, Helen, on liquor license bribery charges, how he and special investigators for a legislative committee installed a dictograph apparatus in Mrs. Werner's private office.

With the apparatus were made records of conversations in Mrs. Werner's office which figured in the first trial. It ended in a jury disagreement. The discs were played so much at that first trial, however, that they wore out, Watrous said.

2-Way Radio System for City Police

Calling all cars—and motorcycles.

Santa Ana's own two-way radio system for police work soon will be sending out hurry-up calls to prowling cars and motorcycle officers of the city if present plans of the city council go through.

Broached by Police Commissioner Plummer Bruns, the new plan was approved at an informal session of the city council yesterday afternoon, and authorization was granted to apply to the government radio commission for assignment of a wave length to the city of Santa Ana.

The city is negotiating with the Dow radio company for installation of the two-way radio broadcast and receiving system. The purchase price is expected to be about $1200.

When the radio system is installed, it will be possible to broadcast directly to the police cars and motorcycles, and also for the cars and motorcycles to communicate through the air with police headquarters.

The program would enable the local police system to apprehend wanted persons more rapidly and surely, Bruns said, and would effect a considerable saving in mileage costs. The system would make it possible for inter-communication within a radius of about 10 miles, it was said.

COURT PLAN FOES UNITE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Congressmen opposed to the administration's court program, who have been loosely united, switched their tactics and decided to set up formal campaign organizations.

A group of house Democrats arranged to appoint a steering committee to seek recruits among the many non-committal members. In the senate recognized leaders are to be chosen, it was learned, in the place of a half dozen members who have been outlining the attack informally.

Hopkins Defends Him
Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, declared "two or three elderly judges" could block social legislation unless the supreme court's complexion is changed.

Hopkins delivered a radio address last night and was followed promptly to the microphone by Senator Clark.

"It is a plain fact at the present time," Hopkins declared, "that unless the complexion of the supreme court can be changed, two or three elderly judges living in cloistered seclusion and thinking in terms of a bygone day, can block nearly every effort of a popularly elected President, and a popularly elected congress to correct ills."

Clark Sees No Mandate
If Mr. Roosevelt wanted to become a dictator, he argued, he would try to curb congress. Senator Clark, one of the opposition leaders, denied that the November election gave Mr. Roosevelt the right to recommend court changes.

"No such mandate was received from the people," he said, "for the all-sufficient reason that no such issue was submitted to the people."

PEARSON CASE IS CLOSED

RIVERSIDE. (AP)—The Humphrey Pearson death is a closed case so far as he is concerned, Sheriff Carl Rayburn of Riverside county declared today.

Sheriff Rayburn said he is through talking to Mrs. Pearson, widow of the dead scoundrel, and that she is free to leave the Riverside hospital when her condition allows.

District Attorney Earl Redwine, who yesterday expressed dissatisfaction with Mrs. Pearson's account of the fatal shooting of her husband in their Palm Springs villa last Wednesday night, was out of his office today.

STEEL STRIKE AVERTED BY WAGE RISE

Six Large Mills Agree To 40-Hour Week and $5-a-Day Minimum

By the Associated Press
One-half million steel workers celebrated a "bloodless" victory in wage negotiations today while unionists on strike sectors of the nation pushed drives for better working conditions and pay.

Six large steel mills agreed to the 40-hour week with time and a half overtime and a minimum wage of $5 a day for common labor effective March 16. It marked an epoch in the industry, long welded to the 48-hour week. Other steel fabricators were expected to follow the leaders.

$125,000,000 Increase
Wage concessions granted John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization was estimated to exceed $125,000,000 annually.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, largest producer in the field, was the first to announce recognition of the Lewis group. Bethlehem, National Steel, Republic, Inland, National Tube and Youngstown Sheet and Tube followed.

The Lewis C. I. O. recently opened its big push with strikes that tied up many General Motors plants.

Conferences on wages, working conditions and union recognition were called for tomorrow with officials of the Chrysler Motor Company. The C. I. O. also has announced a drive to organize workers in a New Jersey plant of the Ford Motor Company.

A conciliation attitude by employer and employer eased the tenseness of disputes over wages, hours, union recognition and other issues without resorting to physical violence.

More than 100 sit-down strikers, most of them women, held two F. W. Woolworth company stores in Detroit. Both establishments were closed and strikers barred company officials from one. A union official said the strike might be extended to all of the firm's 2000 5-and-10-cent stores in the nation unless the dispute over wages and hours were settled by Saturday.

Auto Plant Closes
A sit-down strike closed the main plant of the Murray corporation of America, automobile body manufacturers, this afternoon. The United Automobile Workers of America said that 5000 of the 6,500 employees were participating in the strike.

William Hynes, district president of the United Mine Workers, said he was notified today that miners who sat down at the Jamison Coal company, Uniontown, Pa., began leaving the shaft this afternoon.

Some 107 blind employees went on strike for increased pay and improved working conditions at a factory operated by the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind at Pittsburgh.

County Funds Are $3,293,934.17

Orange county had $3,293,934.17 in its treasury yesterday when officials made the regular first-of-the-month count.

Treasurer Terry E. Stephenson, Auditor W. T. Lambert and District Attorney W. F. Menton found $2,430,000 in banks at one cent interest, $407,685.54 in registered state warrants, $314.28 in coins, $37,919 in currency, $2636.55 in checks and warrants, $9000 in investments, and $765,295.80 in checking accounts.

An application asking the city council to rezone the 1900 block on South Cypress to permit the construction of the church was filed with the council by Charles C. Hoff and J. B. Smith.

The application was referred to the city planning commission, which recommended that the council take no action until plans and specifications for the structure are filed with the city clerk.

Recommendation of the planning commission was followed by the council.

Plans for construction of a new church by the South Santa Ana Church of Christ were revealed last night at a meeting of the city council.

WILL OPPOSE SPREADING OF WATER

Ask Legislators for Aid in Blocking Appropriation

Water officials of Orange county today launched a new battle against increased water spreading in the upper reaches of the Santa Ana river.

At the same time they prepared to keep a careful watch on a new proposal to construct a dam on the Santa Ana river in San Bernardino county.

Bill Pending
The Journal learned that late yesterday Secretary C. A. Palmer of the Orange county water district sent a letter to Orange county representatives in the state legislature, informing them of the danger to Orange county in a proposal to have the state appropriate $800,000 for spreading water in San Bernardino county.

The appropriation bill was introduced in the assembly by Assemblyman Andreas on Jan. 11 and is now pending. It calls for an appropriation of $800,000 for a water spreading program.

Loss To County
Local water leaders feel that further increase in water spreading up the river would decrease materially the flow into this county, with resultant loss of water which could be sunk in the Orange county underground basin. The state funds would be expended under authority of the state department of public works.

The Journal also learned that the announcement of the proposal by Francis Cuttle, president of the Riverside Water company and the Water Conservation association, to build a dam at Filirea Flats, officials of the local water district are planning a careful check on status of the plan.

It was proposed that the dam be built five miles south of the old Santa Ana river control in a narrow gorge. It would hold back 5500 acre feet of water.

HALF BILLION GIVEN NAVY

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The house appropriations committee approved today a $526,555,428 allotment for the navy department for the next fiscal year.

The appropriation included funds for the navy's huge ship and airplane construction program for the year, beginning July 1.

The committee ignored budget demands that would have shrunk the supply measure to a new peacetime high of $562,425,709. It lopped $35,870,281 from the budget figures. That kept the amount $1,547,104 less than the record peacetime appropriation for the current year.

But Mayor Votes G.O.P.

The Democratic national committee turned bookshelves today. And Mayor Fred Rowland of Santa Ana became the perplexed prospective purchaser.

It is a super de luxe book the Democratic national committee wants to sell the mayor. It might be worth the price—a mere $250 cash money—to a loyal Democrat. But Mayor Rowland is a staunch Republican!

Mayor Rowland admitted to The Journal that he received a personally signed letter from W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer for the book-hoarding Bourbons' national committee. But what he doesn't know is why he got it. He can't figure out why he should help wipe out the Democratic deficit. Being a Republican, you know.

"Dear Mr. Mayor," the letter says, "a few of President Roosevelt's friends have asked me to prepare for them a de luxe edition of the Democratic Book of 1936. These volumes—absolutely limited to 2500 individually numbered copies—each personally autographed by the President, will be bound in fine leather with the purchaser's name stamped in gold on the cover.

"I am happy to invite you to become the owner of one these highly valuable literary productions. This invitation, of course, is not open to the general public, and I would, therefore, be most appreciative if you will advise me at the earliest possible moment as to the number of copies you desire.

"The books are $250 the copy, and the purpose of this edition is to assist in wiping out the deficit of the Democratic national committee incurred in the recent campaign.

"If you have already purchased your copy of this book there may be some friend who would desire a copy; in that event you would appreciate your turning the enclosed order form over to him."

CITY LIQUOR ORDINANCE ADOPTED

Law Prohibits Drinking On Streets; Drunks in Public Spots

Shades of prohibition came back today to haunt those residents of Santa Ana who imbibe too freely and too openly.

Stringent measures to control liquor drinking and liquor drinkers are embodied in a new city ordinance given first reading by the city council last night.

The new law was tacked onto the 12th ordinance ever adopted in the town of Santa Ana. It is "an ordinance for the prevention and punishment of certain offenses against the peace, good order and health of the town of Santa Ana."

Strict Regulation

If you want to take a drink in your automobile, about the only place you'll be able to do it legally will be in your own garage. Furthermore, there won't be any more drinking on curbs, sidewalks and other public places.

The new law says: "It shall be unlawful for any person to be or to appear in any public place open to public view or public admission, or any street, alley, highway, court, park, railway depot, place or public square, or in any automobile, in the city of Santa Ana, in a state of drunkenness or intoxication."

This section of the law, it was said, is to remove any doubt as to the right of a police officer to enter bars, rooms, cafes, etc., to arrest persons who have had too much to drink.

The law also concerns itself with drinking in private homes. It says: "It shall be unlawful for any person to be on any private premises or in any private house in a state of drunkenness or intoxication to the annoyance of any other person."

Concerning the act of drinking liquor, the law declares: "It shall be unlawful for any person to drink any alcoholic liquor on any street, alley, highway, court, park, railway depot, place or public square or in any automobile in any public place in the city of Santa Ana."

Beach City Acts

Drinking on the street will not be popular in Newport-Balboa this season. First reading of an emergency ordinance prohibiting drinking anything but soda pop on streets, in alleys or parking lots was heard by the city council at its meeting last night.

The beach, too, would be included under terms of the ordinance, it was understood, although some authorities considered revisions might be made before the measure is finally passed.

CHAMBER HELPS CHURCH MEET

Assistance of the chamber of commerce in arrangements for a convention of the Four Square gospel crusaders here Sept. 6 was offered by directors of the chamber yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. W. C. Farham, pastor of the local church, appeared before the board to discuss convention plans. The event is expected to bring more than 4000 young people between the ages of 18 and 35 here. The city has offered the convention the use of the city bowl for meetings.

The directors named Harry Hanson to investigate the possibility of locating weather instruments in a fire station where 24-hour service could be obtained. The move is planned so that metropolitan newspapers will be able to carry more Santa Ana temperatures and rainfall records. Roch Bradshaw, local correspondent for a Los Angeles newspaper, explained the difficulty of securing 24-hour service here now on weather reports.

Dale Deckert reported on plans for the June air show planned to be staged at the Martin airport. Clarence Hoiles reported on plans for supplying a deficiency in furnished apartments in the city. Fred McCandless reported on the auto parking and safety program outlined.

Vet Official's Son Missing

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Justice department agents and police searched today for 12-year-old James T. Brady, Jr., son of the veterans' administration solicitor. Brady expressed fear that his son, who has been missing since he left home yesterday for school, might have been the victim of a disgruntled client. As solicitor, Brady explained, he signs letters denying applications for veterans' compensation.

Edison Company Chief Wouldn't Like This Story

If you don't want to get hauled out of bed by a squad of police, turn out your lights at night.

E. B. Burns, 916 Spurgeon street, forgot one of his lights last night. A neighbor called police with an excited story about burglars.

Within a few moments Officers Adams, Lane, Cozad, Foster, Holmes, Lenz and Elliot had surrounded the house.

Burns surrendered without a struggle, and turned off his light.

'Smart Girl'

BARBARA READ

Barbara Read of Laguna Beach, who played in "Three Smart Girls," will be at Walker theater tomorrow night in connection with the talent contest sponsored by the Orange County Peace Officers association.

Miss Read is now playing the feminine lead in "The Road Back," sequel to "All Quiet on the Western Front."

David Oliver, news reel cameraman who turned comedian, will be master of ceremonies and conduct tryouts from the stage. Oliver made 11 pictures in eight months, and was the original impersonator of a sweepstakes loser.

Sylvian Simon, executive of the Universal Pictures talent department, and John Whitehead of the publicity department, also will be at the theater.

Registrations for the talent contest may be made at 420 West Fourth street.

HOBBO ADMITS SLEW BABY

BUENOS AIRES. (AP)—Police announced late yesterday that the "Linyero" (hobo) Jose Gancedo had confessed to the kidnapping of Eugenio Pereyra Iraola, son of a wealthy Argentine family. The baby's body was found Saturday, a day after his disappearance.

It also was announced Gancedo confessed killing the boy. The confession was obtained after a detective, posing as a fellow prisoner, worked himself into the "Linyero's" confidence.

C. OF C. MAKING YULE PLANS

It's pretty early to start talking about Christmas, but the chamber of commerce already is making enthusiastic plans for the most elaborate celebration at Christmas time of any ever staged here.

A special meeting of the retail division of the chamber was called this morning to make tentative arrangements for securing the Thatcher-Stanbery Productions show here on Dec. 4.

The chamber of commerce secured an option on that day for the production, which embraces a colorful program including a big parade in the morning. If present arrangements go through, Santa Ana will have the show exclusively in the territory between Los Angeles and San Diego.

The show and parade include real reindeer, Eskimo dogs, camels, ponies, clowns, a Santa Claus, naming of a "Miss Mary Christmas"; radiograms to Santa Claus and formal entry into the city and other features. After the parade and show, kids are given free opportunity to ride the camels and ponies.

H. S. Stanbery met with the retail board to discuss the plans. It is not yet definitely settled if one of the production units will be brought here from the Middle West.

OLD CARS WILL DIKE RIVER

Twenty-five tons of old automobile frames will be thrown up as a bulwark to keep the Santa Ana river in its channels, under authority given today by the board of supervisors.

M. N. Thompson, county flood control engineer, said the work, including dredging the river channel, will cost $7000.

Use of auto frames was suggested in a petition of 15 land owners along the river east of the Yorba bridge. The frames will be sunk into the bank to form a network of steel posts, connected with wire and anchored with channels.

Brush and debris caught by the frames will aid in building up a dike, Thompson said.

Condition of John Lamb Is Better

County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb today was reported much improved at St. Joseph's hospital, where he was sent for a rest last Saturday.

Lamb collapsed from a mild heart attack Saturday noon in the county clerk's office while discussing legislative bills.

WATERBOARD FOR COUNTY LOBBYIST

Water, incorporated, is in favor of the county keeping a lobbyist at Washington to forward flood control plans.

The board of directors of the water company last night voiced its approval of the board of supervisors' plan. Chairman Willard Smith of the board last week urged sending George W. Malone of Los Angeles and San Francisco back to Washington for the third time, at $50 per day.

The water company failed to define the type of lobbyist the county should send. Right now, it said, conditions call for an engineer. A politician might be needed later.

News Expected

Supervisor Harry D. Riley also told the directors the county could expect definite word on its flood control program by March 15, and hinted that north county interests are planning formation of a separate flood control district for the purpose of getting action on its flood control problems.

Formation of a state-wide flood control and water conservation program will not affect programs now approved by federal agencies, Riley said, and these will take precedence over other programs.

Flood Control Engineer N. M. Thompson outlined the current flood situation in the county, and said there still is danger in the vicinity of the Yorba bridge. The river bed has been built up an estimated two feet there this winter, he said, and water now flows near the crest of the banks, and any considerable flood would set a course through North Anaheim.

Irvine Lawsuit

Touching upon the Irvine suits for settlement of water rights on the upper Santa Ana river, William Schumacher, director of the Orange county water district, counseled against intervention. He said James Irvine had promised to notify his board when intervention is desired or needed.

Thompson outlined Prado dam plans and specifications as given tentative approval by army engineers, and plans calling for raising of the crest of the Santiago dam 35 feet, for flood purposes.

Directors of the water company elevated S. W. Stanley to the position of vice president, to fill the vacancy left by the death of George Griffith. Lee C. Deming was named a director.

Foreign Expert Is Forum Speaker

Pointing to America's record in past wars as encouraging to the hopes of future peace, Mrs. Malone Graham, international relations expert, spoke before a meeting of Orange county public forums at Santa Ana High school last night, on "Our Relations With the Foreign World."

In only six years of the total years of existence of the American government has this nation been involved in wars with other nations, Mrs. Graham said. In the hope for future peace this record of isolation from war is encouraging.

Thieves Busy in Doctors' Offices

Sneak-thieves making doctors' offices their exclusive specialty are getting to be a nuisance at the Santa Ana police station.

Sunday Dr. H. Huffman, 315 South Main street, reported his office had been burglarized by thieves who pried open the rear door for entrance.

Yesterday Dr. Milo K. Tedstrom reported thieves who pried open a rear door, stole a watch from his nurse's desk. Dr. H. B. Hill, 809 North Main, reported his office had been burglarized by the same methods. Nothing was missing.

NRA REPORT GIVEN TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt told congress today it could find a key to many industrial problems in the successes and failures of the defunct National Recovery administration.

Sending to the national legislature a 240-page report of his committee on industrial analysis, appointed April 1, 1936, the President said that "in my opinion, it will point the way to the solution of many vexing problems of legislation and administration in one of the most vital subjects of national concern."

The committee made an analysis of the aims, organization and accomplishments of the National Recovery administration which was invalidated by a supreme court ruling in the spring of 1935.

Praise and blame of NRA activities were mixed in the review signed by Prof. J. M. Clark of Columbia university; William H. Davis, New York attorney; George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks; and George M. Mead, Dayton, Ohio, manufacturer.

No recommendations as to specific legislation were made but in its conclusions, the group said: "Both for legal and for economic reasons, any program similar to that of NRA needs more definite standards than NRA possessed, and, as already suggested, the important question concerns standards for any future action of this sort that may be taken."

Urging Limitation Then the committee discussed possible standards for hours, wages, fair practices and anti-trust laws in industry.

The committee said that "if controls of the NRA type are to be tried again, the experience indicates that the attempt should be limited to a few important industries in order that proper standards of investigation and adequate supervision may be maintained, and should be guided from the start by more definite principles and policies such as NRA experience indicates as being likely to stand the test of application."

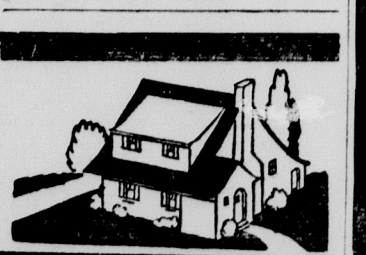

NRA was credited with "moral and economic value" through restriction of child labor, and its support of the collective bargaining principle was described as "of great and probably lasting importance, out of proportion to the immediate and tangible results secured."

Authentic Music, Settings For Community Play

Santa Ana Community players are letting nothing stand in the way of the authenticity of their newest play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," slated for Friday and Saturday nights at the Ebell auditorium.

Not only is the play being done in period costume and setting, but the players have reached back into 1895 for a musician who can bring them authentic music.

James McCarthy, violinist, with the Elwood Bear string ensemble, was present at the first performance ever given of "The Importance of Being Earnest," at St. James theater, London, on Feb. 14, 1895.

Friday night he will join the ensemble in playing the same music that was played at that first performance.

The numbers are Haydn's minuet from the Military Symphony, Mozart's minuet, from the Symphony in E major, Wellesley's Gavotte Classique, the minuet from Mozart's Don Juan suite, and the old English folk dance, Country Gardens.

Cast of "Earnest" plunged into final rehearsals last night, with nightly sessions slated until dress rehearsal Thursday evening.

Costumes have been assembled from the four corners of Santa Ana, and ordered from costumers in Los Angeles. Burr Shafer and his stage crew have arranged for authentic period furniture.

Final polishing of lines and cues this week will insure a finished performance for this week-end, which should attain the high standard set by the two previous plays of this season, "Hay Fever," and "Judgement Day."

Members of the cast are Mary Swarthout as Gwendoline, Lawrence Patterson as Algernon, Bob Guild as Earnest, Florence Brownridge Nalle as Cecily, Mrs. Gertrude Horn as Lady Bracknell, Mary Nalle as Miss Prism, Russell Hathaway as Lane, and Emmett Thompson as Merriman.

Members of the Elwood Bear String Ensemble include: Georgia Belle Walton, Eleanor Miller, Faye Spicer, Marjorie Dudley, Mary Everett, Valesca Porter, James McCarthy, Rose Marie Finlin, Eva Granger, Mitchell Hooking, Alice Titensor, Helen Lutz, Simon Pias, Anna May Archer, Esteban Rodriguez and Mary Ferry, accompanist.

SEEK MAN IN SLAYING OF FAMILY

AUBURN, Wash. (AP)—A 36-year-old Japanese farm laborer was sought today for questioning in connection with the slaying of his wife and four children, whose bodies were removed from a crude grave beside their home near here yesterday.

The laborer, Enechi Kato, was said to have bought a railway ticket for Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 15, a day or two after his wife, about 35, and his children, Sam, 9; Tom, 8; Betty, 7, and Amy, 5, were believed to have been killed in their beds.

Mrs. Kato, Tom and Amy were shot. The other two were strangled with ropes.

Japanese laborers learned of the tragedy when they went to the Kato home to investigate the family's disappearance.

Mrs. Covault, 20, testified that early Friday she heard Covault slap the baby, Joan.

"Three weeks ago he tied her hands to the bed because he didn't like the way she behaved," the mother added.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

FIRST, whether you like it or not, we're going to Ensenada, so just settle back in your seat and like it!

This department did—Saturday and Sunday. I mean, went to Ensenada. No setting back in my seat, much.

Being the first trip into the supposedly uncivilized portion of Baja California, I was sort of disappointed. Didn't see a single serape—there wasn't a well-decorated Mexican in sight all the time I was there. Couple of well-dressed, however. The only touch of the old country was herds of burros bringing firewood into town. And they seemed to be rather bored by it all.

As far as I could see, they have not a thing there that can't be run across here, if you look far enough. One can find just as bumpy streets in—I was going to say Laguna, but thought better of it, knowing the sentiment of Capt. George Portus regarding his streets. One buys the same butter and the same coffee and the same shoes at the same price, about. Disappointing!

Only one thing—if Sam Meyer'd been along, we'd have had a fine time. Cigarettes are cheap—six packs for a quarter. For two bits Sam could have laid in a supply to keep chiseling reporters satisfied for many months!

Certain of my friends will want to know about fishing.

I've discovered that, in regard to fishing, we aren't any different from the Mexicans.

At the border, a very kindly gentleman insisted that I buy a license. The price was $4—but in Mexican money, which made it $1.15, to me. This ardent sportsman was enthusiastic about fishing at Ensenada. He assured me I could fill a gunny-sack with luscious surf fish in no time at all. He almost convinced himself he should quit his ticket-selling job and go along.

And, like all good fishermen, I'm afraid he exaggerated a wee bit. Because I didn't get any fish. It might have been because I did not take along a sack to fill.

But, seriously, the water's pretty muddy there, just as along the coast here. Be a week or more before it clears up. Them, I was told, things'll start to happen.

The road isn't bad—four hours from here to there. Nothing's very expensive, neither is anything cheap. And, for this time of the year, the place is crowded.

However, if you like wildflowers, go ahead. To me, personally, a wildflower isn't worth much. Can't use it for bait, nor to feed the cat and dog. But the family? My goodness, the yowling and screeching at the "gorgeous" poppies and the pretty this's and beautiful that's! There were lots of 'em—flowers—anyway.

Incidentally, while stopping in Tia Juana on the return trip, I almost was able to make arrangements for my boat-falling-out-of-contest with B. K. Maxwell from Fullerton.

B. K. it was reliably reported, was in town. I went searching. Saw a huge crowd, once, and felt certain it was the newspaperman, but it turned out to be a pet bear, or something.

I think, by golly, that guy's dodging me. Perhaps his entry in the boat contest has cold feet, or something!

Now we'll move over to Laguna. Just like that.

Red Barnett, who fills the private-operative shoes in the Art Colony, writes about artists and footware. He seems slightly shocked at happenings he records, but I doubt it, for some reason or other. See what he says:

The following would indicate that we can have a collective editorial sigh of relief realizing that the fair name of Laguna is being upheld forcefully, if not with dignity.

One of our better known artists recently found that her slumber was being disturbed at quite a respectable hour of the evening by some people nearby who were being entertained by the radio in their car.

Being of a pacifistic nature she waited a decent five minutes, and when the disturbance continued she rushed from her house and at the top of her voice screamed "Shut Up," and threw at the carefree souls, a shoe of all things.

Of course the noise stopped, and with the quiet came a rainstorm, it being the night of the Great Rain, and washed away our artist's shoe. And now our artist, although she really has another pair of shoes, sits and contemplates her lone shoe and considers becoming a surrealist.

Maybe Verner Beck could write a sermon for chillun on this!

Reporters 'Go Hollywood' in 'Love Is News'

Determined to achieve genuine realism in at least one newspaper picture, Director Tay Garnett, busy casting extras for the gay romance, "Love Is News," starring Tyrone Power, Loretta Young and Don Ameche, now at the Broadway theater on the same bill with the Jane Withers picture, "The Holy Terror," sent out a call to various newspapers for real reporters to supply atmosphere for the film.

It was then that the director discovered that every man is an actor at heart, for even the usually carelessly attired reporters "went Hollywood" in heading the call. They arrived on the set all bright and burnished in their native Sunday suits, with not a single rumpled tie, ancient hat or unpressed suit in the crowd.

"Boys," exclaimed Garnett, "this will never do. You look too much like actors!" And he immediately summoned the prop man to "age" the reporters' clothing.

"Love Is News" closes its local run Wednesday night.

Sideshow Shark Too Dead for Exhibit Purpose

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—A rose by any other name may smell as sweet, but the old saying came a cropper when it encountered Joe Dixon's shark today.

The big fish, measuring some 16 feet they say, ran into Dixon's net while the live-bait man was seining off the harbor entrance.

Somebody said it was a scabian shark, and somebody else said it looked more like a side-show shark to him, and they ought to charge admission.

Thinking it over, though, the idea was discarded. The shark was getting to be a bit too dead.

Frances Haven, American girl, has been living on an isolated little farm in Denmark with an elderly couple named Jillup. They are trying to marry her off to their son, Joe, whom she cannot stand. When she tells them she is going to join her brother in Bucharest, Rumania, they lock her in her room. She escapes to Bucharest with the aid of an unknown person who sends her a note signed only with a crayon drawing of a purple arrow.

Shortly afterward her brother killed in a car belonging to Joe Jillup's best friend, Arthur Slacks. Fran suspects the car was tampered with. She goes to a little pension in the country. Ward Peterson, a young man who proves to be an agent of The Purple Arrow, turns up to watch over her. Then, Arthur Slacks and Joe Jillup arrive. Fran receives a scrawled warning that she is in danger. That evening Joe tells her that she was a fool to run away from him and that, if she does not obey him, she is likely to find herself in prison.

CHAPTER XX

The effect on Fran of Joe's warning was quite different from what he evidently expected. His reference to prison was so preposterous that she abruptly forgot her fear of him and burst out laughing. So he thought he could frighten her into submission!

She laughed again. His face reddened and his eyes narrowed. "That is the best joke I've heard in a long time," she said at last. "It's no joke," he answered her, in a cold voice.

"Listen, you little fool, it's not bluff either! You've got yourself mixed up with the Purple Arrow, and that's all the police will want to know."

Fran was still not afraid, but her nerves became taut again. Joe noticed the change, and smiled coldly.

"So," he said. "That makes you sit up."

"Explain what you mean?"

"In a hurry to listen to me now, aren't you?" His voice was sarcastic. "Very well—you've got yourself involved with one of the world's biggest criminals."

"I don't believe it."

"And your friend Petersen is his first lieutenant."

"I don't believe that, either."

"The police will believe it."

Fran was silent a moment. She did not believe him, but her heart was pounding.

"You can't frighten me, Joe Jillup," she repeated. "You have no proof that I have ever even heard of this Purple Arrow."

"No?" It was his turn to laugh. He took a crumpled letter from his of Joe's handwriting. She wondered how she could get it, and suddenly had an idea.

"Are you really sincere about this proposal?" she asked.

"Sincere?" he exclaimed. "How many times do I have to ask you?"

"Would you put it in writing?" Joe stared at her in amazement. "What sort of a game is this?"

"I am asking you to put it in writing."

Joe frowned. She could see that he was wondering if this was some sort of a trap but, in the end, he evidently came to the conclusion that a written proposal would strengthen his position and convince her he was in earnest.

"All right," he said.

He sent a maid for some paper, and quickly wrote a short, informal letter in which he asked her to marry him. Fran took it with a little smile.

"Thanks," she said.

Joe bit his lip. He looked at her suspiciously, and she saw that he was beginning to regret having granted her request.

She stood up. "Good night, Joe. Will you call your watchdog now and tell him to let Ward free?"

"Tell him yourself," Joe grunted, not moving.

Fran left the room, and found Ward and Slacks standing by the front door. They turned as she appeared.

"There's going to be an awful storm," Ward commented.

Fran realized that the air had grown terribly heavy. A sudden streak of lightning cut the sky. Slacks eyed her keenly. "Have a good chat with Joe?"

"Thanks, yes—most satisfactory." Fran smiled good-naturedly. "Joe's a little high-handed at times. Listen, Miss Haven." He was suddenly very serious and appeared to be saying, "Just because I'm Joe's friend doesn't mean that I can't be yours."

"I'm afraid it does," he said quietly, "you can depend on me. Good night."

Not many hours later, she was to remember those words, but now, ignoring him, she turned to Ward. Slacks walked away, a bitter little smile on his lips.

REPORTER AND WOMAN BURY HATCHET

Case Against William Kay at Laguna Ends Amicably

William F. Kay, Laguna Beach newspaper correspondent, and Mrs. Elsie B. Robinson, chamber of commerce officer secretary of the same city, patched their differences in superior court yesterday afternoon and called off a trial of Kay on peace disturbance charges. Following an argument over a letter in the Chamber of Commerce office, Mrs. Robinson filed a complaint against Kay, who later was convicted by a jury in Laguna Beach justice court. Justice Fred Warner of San Clemente, sitting at Laguna Beach, fined Kay $50 and suspended a 30-day jail sentence. On appeal to Superior Judge G. K. Scovel, Fred Johnston, defense attorney, won a new trial for Kay on grounds Justice Warner erred in his rulings. Kay, it was understood, apologized to Mrs. Robinson just before going into Presiding Judge H. G. Ames' court to open the new trial. Judge Ames assented to the withdrawal of charges.

Turner Store to Pass on Savings On Refrigerators

Savings effected through the purchase of a carload of Kelvinator refrigerators will be passed on to customers of the Turner Radio store, it was announced today. By Sept. 1 all refrigerator factories discontinue manufacturing, and start re-tooling for the next year's models, it was pointed out, and before closing down factories, they must produce a stock of the current models to supply their trade during the transition. Because the manufacturers cannot gauge exactly the number that will be required, they make plenty of the electrical refrigerators and sell the surplus at a low cash price to clear their warehouses, the store officials said. The Turner Radio company, it was announced, was fortunate in being able to purchase a carload of the proven machines and will pass along the savings to customers on its usually liberal time pay plan.

Aberhart Seeks Advice About Job

CALGARY, Alta. (Canadian Press)—Premier William Aberhart is seeking the advice of Alberta voters whether to resign or to continue in office in the face of his admitted inability to establish a social credit program. Only his political supporters, who elected him on a platform including promises to establish monthly $25 "credit dividends" for all citizens, raise the individual purchasing power, and regulate prices, will be asked to advise the premier concerning his future course, he said. The cornerstone of Aberhart's debt-reduction program, the Alberta reduction and settlement of debts act, was declared unconstitutional Feb. 19 by a provincial supreme court justice.

Lenten Meditations

"Having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end." Read Mark 10:17-22. We are agreed that Christianity is the religion of love. It is, therefore, the more surprising that in the earliest records of the teaching of Jesus, given us in the first three gospels, little is said about love. The word seems to have come much more freely from the pens of Saint Paul and Saint John than from the lips of Jesus. May it be in this, as in certain other matters, that the silences of Jesus are significant. To be a loving person does not mean that you talk too much about love. Indeed, many of those who love most deeply use the word least. It is well for us not to wear our hearts on our sleeves; and this is true of our religion as of our natural affections. What we are to use Emerson's distinction—should speak so loud that people do not need to hear what we say about this cardinal Christian grace. One is grateful for that fine line of Robert Browning's in which he describes a simple Christian convert of the first century, watching by the cave where Saint John lay dying during a Roman persecution. The Bactrian was but a wild, childish man, And could not write nor speak, but only loved.

Prayer: Eternal God, who lovest all whom thou hast made, and hastest none, grant us a greater measure of thy love. Where our hearts are small, enlarge them; where they are deceitful, make them sincere; where they are fickle, make them constant; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Oil Trial Scribes Record 35,000 Words Per Day

By PAUL BODENHAMER

"Describe the fundamental principles of the gyroscopic oriented survey instrument," an attorney directs. In front of the witness stand two quiet men exchange places at a desk and write busily in notebooks as the witness launches into a scientific discussion, as attorneys wrangle, and as Judge James L. Allen rules. Even most of the jurors, who see this change take place every 20 minutes during the Standard Oil Southern California Drilling company whipstock case, don't know who the writing men are, or what they are doing.

35,000 Words Daily Those two men are W. J. White and F. J. Stever, official court reporters, who together take down in shorthand every word that's said in court—some 35,000 words a day—and deliver them, typed and bound in books, to the judge and attorneys every afternoon. While White, for instance, is sitting in court, Stever is the center of a busy whirl on the second floor of the hall of records, across a bridge from the courtroom. From his notes he dictates rapidly into a dictograph. When he has finished, the wax records go to John Wanzler, known to the trade as a transcriber, who clamps a receiver to his ear and types rapidly.

Changes Places Wanzler, who came here from Bell, uses an electric typewriter. The slightest touch of a key sends type bars, power-driven, smashing onto the paper to make five or six clear carbons. Steve and White later change places in court, and White starts

Begin Strenuous Practice For Symphony Program

Santa Ana's symphony orchestra—90 strong—launched into a strenuous rehearsal program this week, in preparation for its March 14 concert. In the past year or two the orchestra has presented many difficult programs, including such major works as Tchaikovsky's fifth and sixth symphonies, and Cesare Franck's symphony in E minor. In this second concert for the 1936-1937 season the versatility and ability of the group will be thoroughly tested. The program will include Grieg's well known Pier Gynt suite, three dances from the music of Henry the Eighth, by Edward German, and another Franck symphony. Bear Conducts Elwood Bear is conducting the augmented orchestra for his fourth year. Under his baton the group has constantly improved in ability. Its last concert, featuring Earl Fraser as guest pianist, was a major triumph. It was the first appearance of the orchestra since its personnel was swelled to 90. For its next performance the symphony will return to its original Sunday afternoon schedule, appearing in the auditorium of the Santa Ana High school. Miss Georgia Belle Walton again will act as concertmaster. TO GUARD ROAD FROM FLOODS CITY TO WAGE WAR ON RATS

Santa Ana will cooperate with the county of Orange in affording flood protection for property owners along Santa Ana boulevard. This was indicated last night when Councilman Ernest H. Layton reported an investigation of the water drainage problem on the boulevard. The investigation was made following a request from property owners whose lands were flooded during the two recent heavy rainstorms. Layton indicated that one drain under the boulevard will do the job. Layton also announced that a check made following the floods showed that no damage was caused to the city park project along Santiago creek. He said he hopes the park project will be completed by late summer and that a formal public opening ceremony can be staged at that time.

New Air Corps Has Dinner Meet

The newly-organized third wing of the Victor McLaglen Air corps met last night for dinner at the Main cafeteria, with Commanding Officer Roy Cheverton in charge. Plans for the renewing and renovating of the Orange county airport, under lease to Floyd Wright, popular Santa Ana aviator, were discussed. Wright announced the field is sufficiently dried from the recent flood to permit flying, and that use of the field would be resumed tomorrow. His new hangar will be finished by the end of this week. The air corps was organized here three weeks ago as a unit of the Metropolitan McLaglen Air corps, and now has 45 members. Commander Cheverton said. Tentative plans were laid for inviting McLaglen to Santa Ana for an inspection trip in the near future. A dinner probably will be held in his honor at that time.

SEWER REPORT READY SOON

Consulting Sanitary Engineer Clyde C. Kennedy is almost ready to submit his report on the outfall sewer system to Santa Ana. The San Francisco engineer, employed by the city to study the outfall sewer situation and make a complete report and recommendations regarding future activities, outlined the status of his report in a letter read at city council meeting last night. He said he is ready by the latter part of next week, and "We try to catch it on the information collected, regard to reconstruction of the outfall sewer. Sanitary features have not yet been worked out, he said. Oats which have been treated with formication may be used for stock feed if there is an oversupply for seed.

NINE SEEKING CLASS POSTS

Nine students at Santa Ana Junior college are in the race for president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the sophomore class for the second semester. Primary elections are to be held tomorrow. Bob Swanson, editor of El Don and member of the student executive board, is in charge of the election. Finals are to be conducted Friday. June Licht will be automatically declared secretary because she is the only candidate for that office. Presidential candidates are Vic Rowland, Al Titensor and Gordon Bishop. Tay Riggs, Franklin Guthrie and Bob Browning are running for vice president. Nominations for treasurer are Howard Rash and Phil Cook.

NO SHINES ON STREETS! PARKING STRIP WILL REMAIN

Pius to Revive Easter Custom

VATICAN CITY. (P)—Pope Pius' improved condition today encouraged him to plan a revival of the custom of bestowing his Easter blessing from the balcony of St. Peter's. The pontiff was persuaded last year because of his health to suspend the custom he had restored after an interval of many years. General W. B. Hazen is generally credited with promoting adoption of a standard time system for the United States. A native of West Hartford, Vt., he died in 1887.

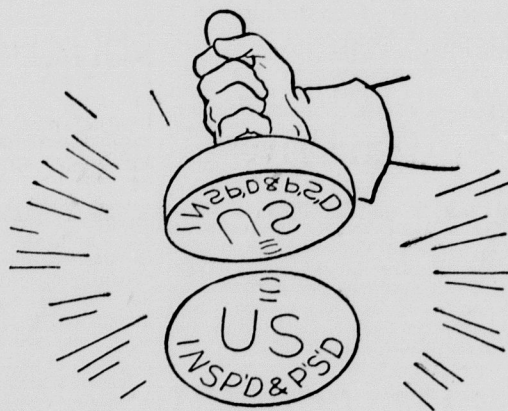

"Shoe shine, boy!" Santa Anans can sing out that tune, but there won't be any shoe shine boys on local streets yelling, "Shine, mister?" Not if the city of Santa Ana can help it, there won't be! Members of the council, in informal session yesterday afternoon, informed City Clerk Ed Vegely they do not favor urchins about the streets with shoe shine boxes slung over their shoulders. They think the kids who want to go back to the good old days of the hurry-up nickel shine would just be a nuisance. Vegely had told the council a number of boys had asked about the proposition. Regular shoe shine stands pay a city license of one dollar a quarter. The city isn't planning to remove the strips of parking which center North Flower street. But some property owners along the street thought that was the plan, and so last night they presented a protest petition signed by 45 persons. The council made it clear that it does not plan to pave over North Flower street where the parkings with shrubbery are located. The shrubs will be kept down to a height of three feet.

WITHOUT THIS ROOM - GOOD MEATS WOULD BE SCARCER

It's one of 5 things Safeway does to bring you perfect roast beef

In finest hotels . . . those marvelous roasts, steaks and chops they serve you are all properly aged. It's the secret of tenderness and flavor. We guarantee that every bit of Safeway meat has been properly aged . . . kept in the Safeway AGING ROOM the right number of days to bring each particular piece of meat to perfection.

Our bulk cuts are free from waste. We carve the meat into perfect large pieces—remove the excess bone and waste parts. From these bulk cuts your Safeway market man will later slice chops and steaks of exactly the thickness you want. He has little trimming to do after your purchase is weighed. A money saver for you.

Constant temperature-control protects the goodness of these Safeway meats right to the time you buy them. (We guarantee this.) Even our enclosed delivery trucks are refrigerated. And the meat travels to market in sterilized containers.

Daily delivery to your Safeway market brings just the amounts and just the kinds of meats your Safeway man expects to sell in the next 24 hours. We guarantee you will get Safeway meats right at their tip-top of goodness!

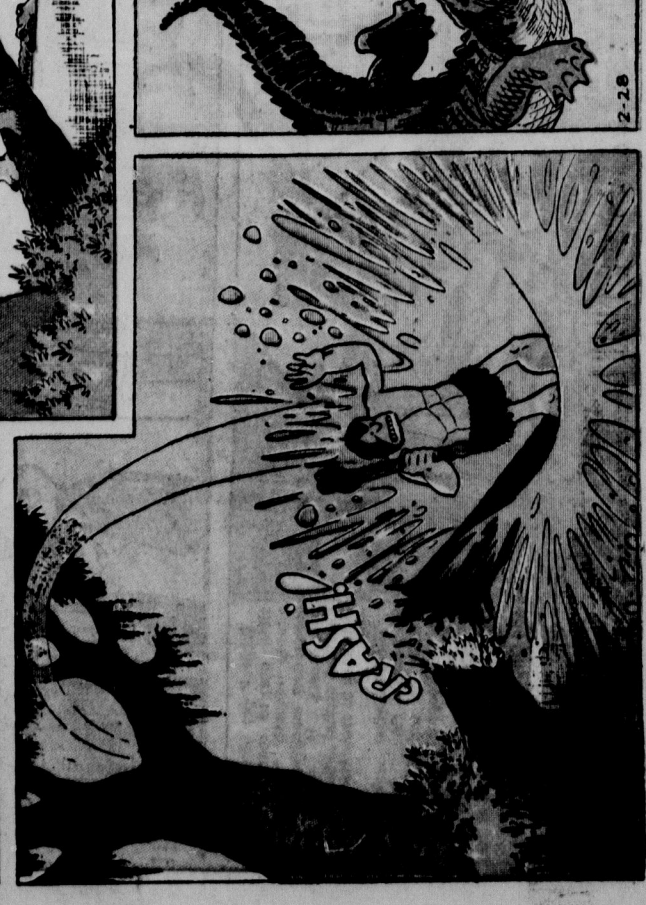

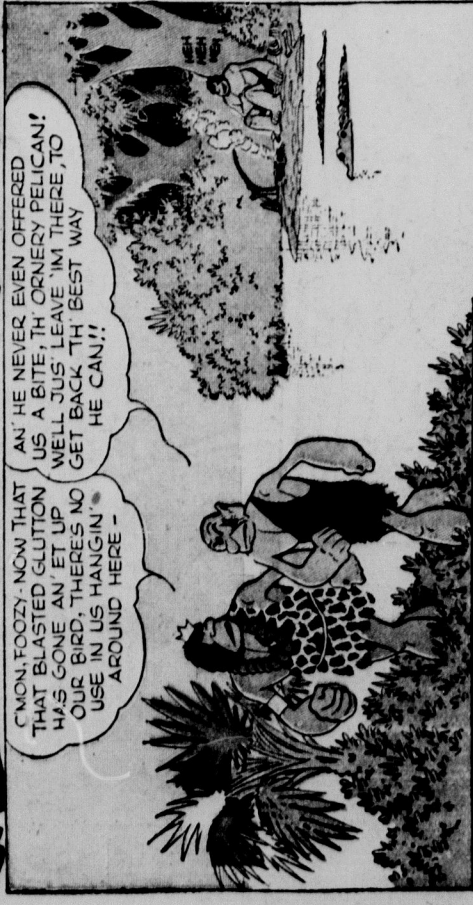

NO WONDER THESE MEATS FROM SAFEWAY ARE GUARANTEED!

Mrs. R. L. Bellem of Pasadena tells us: "My husband is the one I buy meats for. And under your plan I've bought roast beef, for instance, over 25 times—each time getting a roast my husband has really cheered about. I know from experience now that every cut I buy from Safeway will be tender, full of flavor—just grand meat. That's what satisfies a man's appetite."

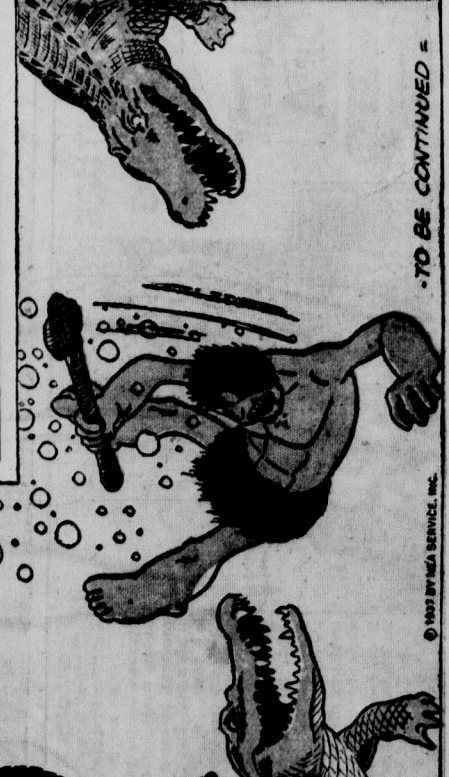

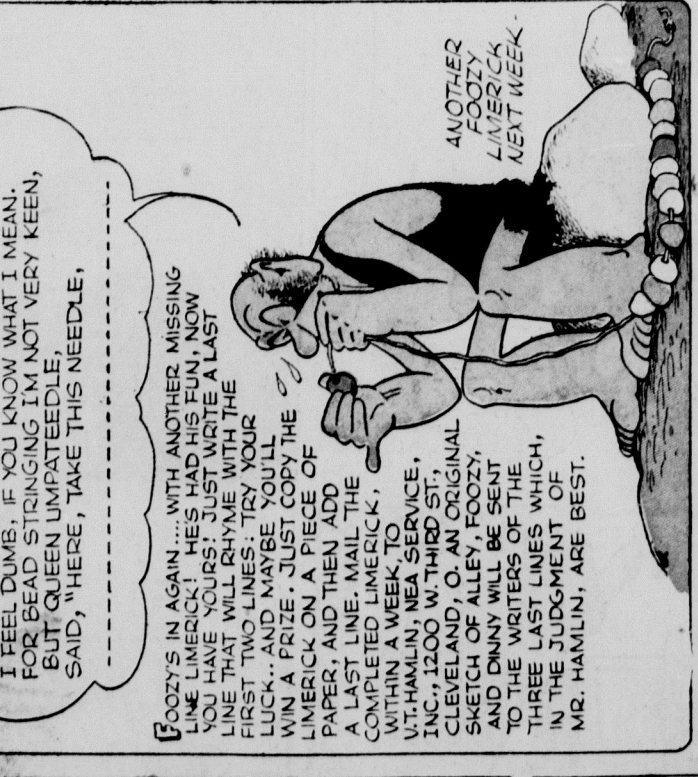

One precious food factor—called protein—our bodies need every day. It builds up stamina, keeps us feeling in tip-top condition. In fact, doctors say we couldn't live for long without it. Nutritional science tells us that our principal source of this vital food factor is meat. So, while there are other foods which contain protein, health authorities recommend, "For sound health and staying power, make sure that your daily diet includes a liberal portion of meat."

A large home is said to mean little to them, and the only reason they ever would build one would be for their daughters.The early animosity to the nursery staff, including Dr. Allan Roy operation, the parents working for

MARKETING
PROBLEMAAA Report Shows Rise
In Production for Past 15 YearsA sharp rise in orange production in California and other producing areas of the nation, coupled with increasing grapefruit production, has greatly intensified marketing problems confronting citrus growers.This fact was brought out in a report from the Agricultural Adjustment administration at Berkeley, released today. The report showed that California's production has practically doubled during the past 15 years and this state now supplies two-thirds of the nation's orange production.
Production of oranges in Florida has increased at a more rapid rate than California's during this period.Since 1923 there has been an upward trend in average national prices. Growers in this area, with the aid of a federal marketing agreement, have been able during the past three years to adjust shipments of oranges more nearly in line with market requirements.At first it was estimated that California would produce 37,684, 000 boxes of the national estimated total of 61,000,000. The recent freezes reduced California production for 1936-37 to somewhat less than 50,000,000 boxes and should result in a considerable further increase in average farm price of oranges. California producers fortunate enough to save any considerable proportion of their orange crop should be rewarded by improved prices, the report said.Restrict Hours
For Taxi DriversSleepy taxicab drivers present a menace to traffic safety, in the opinion of city officials.And so last night the city council gave first reading to a new city ordinance which will restrict the number of consecutive hours a taxi driver can work in this city.Prepared by City Attorney Blodgett, the new law provides that taxi drivers may work but 10 hours out of the 24, and that they must be given eight consecutive hours for rest out of each 24-hour day.Suggested by the police department, the new law is expected to put an end to the reported long hours the taxi drivers have been working without sleep.Blodgett Drafts Bill on TaxesCity Attorney L. W. Blodgett has completed work on a new bill which will be submitted to the state legislature by Assemblyman Thomas Kuchel.The new measure is designed to straighten out a situation resulting from complex wording of a present measure dealing with return of property which has reverted to the government through non-payment of taxes to the tax rolls.The measure would facilitate return to tax rolls of properties confiscated for non-payment of taxes, and so provide additional tax revenue for cities.Band Will Play

certs in Birch park on Monday was announced today. The programs will be given at 12:30 p. m.

he would introduce in the legislature a proposed constitutional

posed change.FIESTA PLANS

NORTH FLOWERThe city council last night launched plans for widening North Flower street between Eighth and Washington.But not until after E. B. Cook had had his say and had objected to reports which reached him from neighbors, which led him to believe that the council was going to slice 20 feet off his property at Tenth and Flower and move the street practically up to his front porch.The council was undecided whether to widen the 29-foot street by 10 feet or less, and so delayed the matter for another two weeks.A WPA project, whereby the city would spend $4500 and the government $2493 to make the street a 40-foot roadway was suggested by Councilman William Penn, who later said it may be possible to reduce this cost by making it a 36-foot street instead of a 40-foot street. The latter plan would take but from five to seven feet from the property owners.Councilmen pointed out that Flower street is near the city hall, where there are large crowds with resultant heavy traffic, and that it is one of the main thorough streets into the city. The planning commission recommended that the widening plan be carried out as soon as possible.Ambulance Service Is ExplainedThe Brown and Wagner Funeral home addressed a letter to the city council last night informing the city that it still is operating an ambulance service.Some time ago a new ambulance service was started here.
The owner asked the city to take title to his equipment so he could have a red light and a siren.
Yesterday afternoon the council decided he could have them without action by the city.The Brown and Wagner letter to the council was the same as one sent to doctors, hospitals, fire departments and law enforcement agencies. The letter said an erroneous impression had spread to the effect that none of the mortuarys is now operating an ambulance.Brother of Julia Lathrop Stops HereH. G. Nelson, principal of Julia Lathrop Junior High school, had a hurried visitor yesterday. His name was Lathrop.Lathrop, an attorney in Rockford, Ill., is the brother of the late Julia C. Lathrop, for whom the school was named. He and Mrs. Lathrop are spending the winter in Hollywood, he told Nelson.They were just passing through.
He said, he and his wife, and they took a quick look around and had to rush off."Hmmm," mused Nelson.
"Let's see: What was his first name?"

Social Security Baby

Louise Helena Brisebat is less than six months old but as a working girl, for a Hollywood film company, she is eligible for social security in her old age. If she continues to work for the next 64 years or so, she may apply for an old-age benefit from Uncle Sam and receive $85 a month. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Brisebat of Glendale, Calif.

CAR WAS "HOT"

The car left late Sunday at the Jerry Hall service station with a flat tire turned out today to have been stolen from a Whittier street, police reported today. The automobile was left by a negro, who promised to call for it in 15 minutes. He never returned.

DRIVERS INJURED

Two drivers were treated last night at the police station for minor cuts and bruises, after their cars had been involved in a traffic crash at Fourteenth and Main streets. They were Renfrew Brewer, 402 South Highland street,
Fulerton, and Frank Keasnesky, San Pedro. Owners removed the cars.PERMIT FOR MORTUARY
DENIEDCouncil and Planning Commission Not in Accord on PlanPermission sought by Ralph Shannon, of the Shannon Funeral home of Orange, to establish a mortuary at the southwest corner of Seventeenth and Broadway was denied last night by the city council.Councilman Ernest H. Layton made the motion for denial of the application. A roll call vote showed all council members asenting in the denial.Layton said protests have been received on establishing the mortuary in the location sought, and that it would be undesirable to locate the establishment on North Broadway because it would lower property values and bring about a traffic hazard because of funeral processions.Action of the city council was not in accord with a recommendation of the city planning commission, which suggested that the property be posted for special use and a date set for a public hearing.In his application for permission to establish the mortuary
here, Shannon had said three mortuarys in this city are handling from 600 to 700 burials a year and that the new one would keep the "cost of burials within their value."Church to Hold Business MeetingThe Richland avenue Methodist church will hold a special business meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the church. The Rev. Dr. James E.
Dunning, district superintendent, will preside.Church officers urged all members to be present, inasmuch as important business will be transacted.

Mrs. Clarence Nisson, Mrs. Hugh Plumb, Mrs. E. D. Waynick Head P. E. O.'s

Officers Are Elected On Monday Chapters Devote Meetings Entirely To Business

New leaders took over the reins of office in all three of Santa Ana's P. E. O. chapters yesterday afternoon when the three groups held annual election of officers in their respective luncheon meetings.

As installation takes place immediately after the election in the P. E. O. program, those elected at yesterday's meetings entered immediately upon their new duties, and plans for the coming months made up the remainder of the afternoon.

In Chapter AB, which has been headed this past year by Mrs. Harry L. Hanson, Mrs. Clarence Nisson assumed the presidential responsibilities, with Mrs. Georgia Barnes Bradley as vice president; Mrs. Clarence C. Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. D. Newcom, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Brisco, treasurer; Mrs. LeRoy Hall, chaplain, and Mrs. Arthur Lyon, guard.

The chapter gathered for luncheon at the home of Mrs. O. H. Egge, enjoying the meal on individual trays. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Le Roy Hall and Mrs. Carl Strock.

Heads Of Chapter

The home of Mrs. Sidney Davidson in Costa Mesa was the setting for GJ chapter's meeting and luncheon, at which Mrs. E. D. Waynick was chosen to succeed Mrs. Clarence Bond as president.

Other new officers in this group are Mrs. Bond, vice-president; Mrs. W. J. Stauffer, recording secretary; Mrs. W. B. Heil, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. K. Rowell, treasurer; Mrs. E. L. Klatt, chaplain, and Mrs. W. S. Thomson, guard.

The next meeting of the group will be with Mrs. W. B. Hardigan in Fullerton.

Officers for DI Group

To Mrs. Hugh J. Plumb went the honor of presiding over DI chapter during the coming year. The meeting and noon breakfast were held in the home of Mrs. E. S. Gilbert at 210 South Main street, the afternoon being given over primarily to business.

Other new officers elected by DI chapter, to serve with Mrs. Plumb, who succeeds Mrs. Cood Adams, were Mrs. O. Scott McFarland, vice-president; Mrs. E. S. Gilbert, recording secretary; Mrs. Nat Neff, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank, treasurer; Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips, chaplain, and Mrs. Cood Adams, guard.

HERMOSA TO BE VISITED BY GRAND MATRON

Plans for the official visit of the worthy grand matron to Hermosa chapter of the Order of Eastern Star were made last night at a meeting conducted by Elizabeth Lewis, worthy matron, and Harold Nelson, worthy patron. The visit will be made at the next meeting, March 15, and all the work will be exemplified.

Betty Gowdy of Santa Ana chapter and Mae Galloway of Fullerton chapter were escorted to the east, after which Philip Smith, a national forest ranger, was introduced. He presented a very interesting illustrated lecture on the Carlsbad Caverns.

At the close of the program guests and members proceeded to the banquet room which was beautifully decorated with trailing smilax and napkins and candles in the same green tones. Refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Glenn Cave and her committee which was composed of Bernice Echols, Lila Edmunds, Emma Edington, Zulu Drake, Maude Halliday, Harriet Barnell, Myrtle Rutherford, Agnes Lindig, and Glenn Cave.

Guests of the chapter who were introduced included Nellie B. Odell of Indianapolis, Carrie B. Lowe of Oden, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Carl Galloway of Fullerton, Frances Coltrin and Harryette Wilson of Fullerton, and Alice Talhorst of Cleveland.

ATTEND MUSIC CLUB TEA

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustlin were guests of Mrs. Edward MacDowell, widow of the composer, and Miss Nina Maude Richardson Sunday when the two entertained the Los Angeles MacDowell Colony league at the Women's Athletic club in Los Angeles, enjoying the tea at the close of the program and discussing plans for the Orange County league meeting to be held March 21 in the Gustlin studio in Santa Ana.

Marion Ralston, noted woman composer, will be the guest artist at that meeting, which will be at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and Mrs. MacDowell will be a guest.

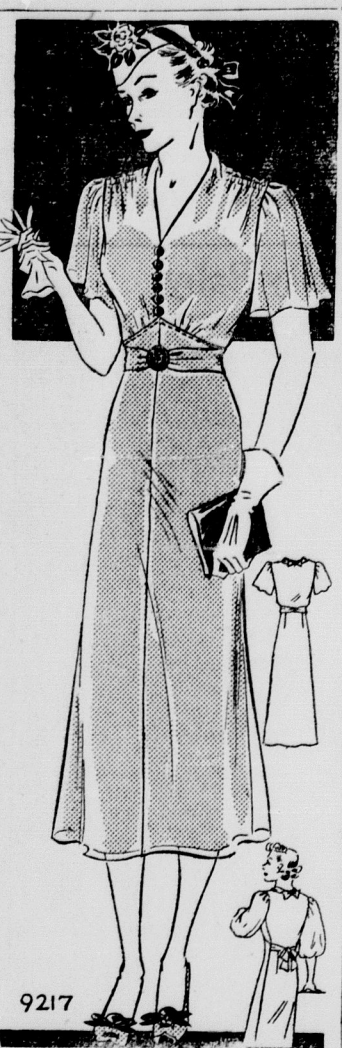

AULD LANG SYNE

Auld Lang Syne club will have an all-day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Knight, R. F. D. 2, Orange. There will be a pot-luck at noon.

Your Baby Book

By BETTY COX

Lambs and lions, rabbits and little baby chickens are all mixed up in this funny month of March, which yesterday came in like a lamb with soft, woolly breezes.

And because it was so lamblike in its arrival, we know it will go out a blustery old lion, for who of us could be meek and good for thirty-one whole days?

But before the day of the lion arrives, there's that day of bunnies and Easter eggs, the 28th of March this year, and that's what we're all looking forward to now—saving our pennies for a pair of long trousers, a Shirley Temple couffure or a pair of those little white Russian boots.

And well look pretty sweet in the Easter parade, we little boys and girls of The Journal's Baby Book, if Mr. Lion just waits his time and doesn't try to horn in three days early with his blustery ending for the month of March.

In the meantime, we have other things on our mind, including birthdays and parties.

A very important birthday this week is that of young Dale Peterson, who will be five tomorrow, for "being five" means that he will start to school next September, and then he will really be a big boy.

To celebrate the important occasion, Dale's mother, Mrs. Douglas Peterson of 421 West Santa Clara street, has planned an all-day party for Wednesday afternoon at their home, and has invited Donald Bald, Fred Forgy, Jack Harvey, Jimmie Harrison, Jimmie Paul, Bobbie Smith, and Richard (Tony) Winkler to help make it a big day for Dale.

Easter chicken bunnies are to be the table decorations, together with the birthday cake, which, of course, will hold the place of honor, and little Easter baskets will further carry out the theme of the coming holiday.

Though it's a little early, it would probably be most appropriate for a near-Easter birthday. Dale likes chocolate cakes, and since it is his birthday, his grandma, Mrs. Frank H. Peterson, is making him one of that variety, and will be there to see him out. An aunt and two cousins, Mrs. J. H. Metzgar, Miss Eleanor Metzgar, and Mrs. Lawrence Minge, will also be present to help mother entertain the little boys.

Dale is a real outdoor boy, his mind full of tricks, scooters, and things on wheels "most all day," but when night comes he wants his books and he likes to be read to. In another year or so, after he has been to school for a while, he will be able to read these books for himself, and in the meantime is getting pretty well acquainted with them and their marvelous contents.

Next to his baby sister, Diane, who shares his birth date with him, but who will not have a party this year because she is going to be only one year old, Dale finds "Wiggie," his bulldog, his most faithful playmate, and Diane adores "Wiggie," too.

Both Dale and Diane are brunettes, the former with dark hair and medium dark eyes, and baby sister with lighter hair, which tries to curl at the ends, but very much darker eyes than her brother.

She is fond of dolls, and also thinks brother's cars are wonderful things, though her interest is not always appreciated by Dale. He does think she is a pretty fine person, though, and is going to be able to teach her lots of interesting things as soon as he goes to school.

Her callers yesterday were Larry Pierson, nine-and-one-half-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Pierson, also Tustinites, and Pauline Owens, four-year-old daughter of the Paul Owens of Los Angeles, who are visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sauer, in Tustin this week. Larry, a native of the county, though not a March one, was Thomas James Glaab's fourth birthday anniversary with a party at the home of his parents, the F. C. Glaabs of 1325 French street.

Little James entertained his friends with games both out-of-doors and in the house, coming in at the end of the afternoon for a beautiful black and yellow birthday party around a gay, candle-lit table.

Ice cream and birthday cake were served to Elsie Collier, Tommy Pate, Diane Howard, Ruby Shilston, Gerald Jones, Bobby and Gerry Patchen, Janice, Carol, and Jackie Hold, Howard Condon, Helen, Elizabeth, and Dorothy Prizio, Teddy Palmer, and the little guest of honor.

Mrs. Glaab was assisted by Miss Rose Lee Fitzpatrick, an aunt of the honored guest; and other "grownups" at the party included Mrs. G. F. Patchen, Mrs. Stanley Palmer, and Miss Pauline Thomas.

Tea Tomorrow For College Women

Associated Women Students at Santa Ana Junior college are holding a tea at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Northcross, dean of women, 131 S. Spurgeon street, tomorrow afternoon.

Women of the faculty are to be guests of the A. W. S. at the informal gathering between 4 and 5:30 p. m. Aside from the instructors, women students of the college will be in attendance, according to Llewelyn Allen, president.

Ann Wetherell and Virginia Sheppard will aid in receiving, while LaVonne Frandson and Frances Will will pour. The purpose of the assemblage is to get the new girls acquainted with one another, Miss Allen stated.

WRYCENDE GIRLS ON HOUSE PARTY

A carefree and profitable weekend was enjoyed by members of Wrycende Maegden who attended a winter-house-party at Laguna Beach. It was doubly nice in that they had two beach cottages to frolic in—one the pretty house of Miss Genevieve Humiston, where they had dinner Saturday night, and the other nearby belonging to Miss Dorothy Decker, where they breakfasted and lunched the next day.

Their guest of honor was Dr. Helen Brown of Ontario and Chaffee Junior college. Because of her knowledge in the field of psychology the conversation naturally turned to that subject, particularly along the lines of personality development.

Those enjoying the happy time including Dr. Brown, Miss Humiston, and Miss Decker, were the Misses Genevieve Hanson, Janice Yetmar, Marie Smith, Rowena Newcomb, Agnes McKinstry, Bonnie Kiser, Jean Bana, Dorothy Jesse, Leon Baxter, Cecil Plantamura, Roma Mays, Betty Peck, Marjorie Livesy, Daisie Carr, Virginia Anthony, Marian Minor, William Fritcher, Mrs. Kay Vaughan.

Food arrangements were in charge of Rose Lesh, transportation in charge of Dorothy Jesse, and general arrangements in charge of Marie Smith.

DRILL TEAM IN FINAL PLANS

Final plans for the "Gay Nineties" show to be given at the high school auditorium this Friday evening by the drill team of the American Legion auxiliary were discussed at the team's business meeting held last Friday night at the William Penn home.

Following business, Mrs. Penn served delicious refreshments to the following members: Ruth Anderson, Grace Carnahan, Alice Daughters, Roseann Hardcastle, Nell Haiber, Ann Liemer, Lucille Sullivan, Gladys Young, Ruth Boese and Alta Marsile.

has blond curly hair and blue eyes, and has a one-word vocabulary, "dada," which promises to grow by leaps and bounds as soon as his sounds become more like words.

Larry's favorite toy is a little woolly elephant, and one of his favorite diversions is "going places." He likes to get out in the car and see new things whenever there's someone to take him.

We seem to be running to blonds this week, and here's another one—Gerald (Gerry) Nielsen, son of the Arthur Nielsens of 818 Louise street.

Gerry has light hair and blue-gray eyes, and is 14 months old. His favorite toy is a little Scottie dog who sleeps with him, and he has a real dog, too. A Boston bull named Topsy, who is almost a year older than he, but who is a fine pal.

family likes riding, either in the little red wagon, and he often goes to Anaheim to visit his grandmother, Mrs. H. P. Nielsen—in the automobile.

Here's one who isn't a blond, and one of the few little girls we seem to be finding this week in our Baby Book. Little Miss Janice Kelly, daughter of the Lyle Kelly's of East Nineteenth street, is very dark, with that lovely olive complexion that goes so well with her kind of dark brown hair and limpid dark eyes.

Janice is in the first grade this year, and she is making rapid progress in reading, which has long been one of her favorite occupations.

One of her most recent acquisitions is a real Hawaiian Hula doll which was sent to her from the islands, a big baby doll with dark skin and a grass skirt, and she's proud of it.

Janice takes quite an interest in current happenings in the world, especially the races at Santa Anita, and she picked three winners in last Saturday's handicap.

Arriving just about in time to get into this week's Baby Book, was little Miss Noel Page Adams, who was born yesterday morning at 5:55 o'clock out at St. Joseph's hospital.

We didn't know at first, when we heard the name, whether to call her Miss or Mr., and her dad, Neil Adams, explained that the names were chosen to fit either a boy or a girl. Noel Page weighed five pounds and eight ounces at shortly after 6 yesterday morning, and she and her mother, the former Helen Bowman, are reported getting along nicely today. When they leave the hospital, they will be at home at 410 1/2 East Sixth street.

Anniversary Celebrated Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schroeder returned Sunday to the home in which they were married to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of that ceremony.

Mrs. Schroeder's mother and sister, Mrs. Anna Kubitz and Miss Helene Kubitz, entertaining at a turkey dinner in their home, 1377 Santiago.

Reminiscences of the wedding, which had been performed 20 years ago that day in the Kubitz home by the Rev. Mr. Joseph Schaff of Los Angeles, uncle of the bride, filled several enjoyable hours for the honored couple and those of their family who attended the ceremony.

A yellow and white color motif was carried out in appointments for the home, which was bright with daffodils, narcissus and anemones. Center-piece for the table was the white and yellow wedding cake, and little bride and groom pictures and corsages marked the places.

Gathering for the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schroeder and Leola, Kenneth, Lowell and Dwight Schroeder; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kubitz, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kubitz and daughters, Madeleine and Arlene, Miss S. E. A. Lehman, James Noe and the hostesses. A bouquet of roses was the groom's gift to his bride, and cards and gifts were received by both in honor of the day.

PRETTY SHOWER FOR HUNTINGTON BEACH FRIEND

A stork presided over an array of daintily wrapped parcels on C. R. Imm home at 1010 West Myrtle street Friday afternoon when Mrs. Imm entertained at a pretty shower in honor of Mrs. Othel Johnson of Huntington Beach.

All decorations were in keeping with the party theme, a parasol dripping pink and blue streamers centering the dining room table, a clothesline of tiny doll clothes stretching across the buffet, and pink and blue flowers brightening the rooms.

Appropriate games and contests were played, and prizes were won by Mrs. R. L. Hager, Mrs. William Tidball, and Mrs. Earl Matthews, the awards later being presented to the honor guests with the other lovely gifts brought by the guests.

Little cards gave clues to the whereabouts of the hidden party guests, leading the honored guest through the rooms in the joyous search.

The hostess served home made ice cream and cake on individual trays, carrying out the same dainty color scheme in the appointments, with little nut cups in the form of bassinets.

The guest list included, in addition to Mrs. Johnson, her mother, Mrs. O. C. Dennie, and two sisters, the Misses Naomi and Marjorie Derris, of Santa Ana; Mesdames Gerry Kinball, Gene Hartman, Iva Kimball, Lena Lacy, James Warwick, Henry Sands, Ethel Johnson, Viola Gammell, Percy Gammell, William Hart, Dorothy Deakin, Florence Mustard, Julia Deakin, Arthur Williams, William Tidball, A. Smykel, Scott Wiles, Esther Whitely, Frieda Hahn, C. A. R.

Young Woman Advises Mrs. Twenty-Six To Delay Before Getting Divorce

By MARY STODDARD

"Mrs. Twenty-Six" wrote the other day asking other women to tell her experiences upon leaving their husbands. She had found to her amazement that she could only remember his kindness, not the unhappiness that caused their quarrels. Lonesome, blue, she wonders whether she will ever get over her love for him, and whether she did the right thing. Here is one response to her today:

FIDELIS CLUB HUSBANDS ARE HONOR GUESTS

Fidelas class members of the First Baptist church welcomed their husbands and guests at a George Washington dinner Friday night at the church.

Tables, arranged in the form of a "W," were decked in red and white, and a new method of finding dinner partners, originated by Mrs. J. R. Farwell, program chairman, added to the enjoyment.

Mrs. David Meyer presided over the opening, turning the meeting then to Mrs. Farwell, who introduced Miss Claudine Minter and a group of junior college players who presented a one-act comedy, "Table d'Hote." Talented acting was shown by the cast, Isa Grace Young, Miss Minter, Bessie Bures, Paul Krist, Lawrence Trickey, and Joe Crawford.

Mrs. A. T. Davis and Mrs. Marie Klingenberg were the dinner chairmen, and were assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Lamb and Mrs. Lily M. Lawrence.

The next class meeting was set for March 25 at the home of the teacher, Mrs. O. S. Catland, 419 Wellington.

Those present at the dinner were the Messrs. and Mesdames Elmer Steffenson, J. R. Farwell, C. S. Minter, David Meyer, R. L. Marchant, A. T. Davis, Frank E. Thomas, A. J. DeWolfe, W. S. Hunsaker, R. Assistance Club Has Election

Duty of presiding over meetings of the Day Nursery Assistance club during the coming months will devolve upon Mrs. Lloyd A. Chenoweth, who was elected president of the organization yesterday at the luncheon meeting held in the home of Mrs. James Irvine on Myford road.

Election of the new officers and further discussion of a new project which will be announced as soon as arrangements are completed took up most of the afternoon with the contract play following luncheon.

Other officers chosen for the new year, in addition to Mrs. Chenoweth, are Mrs. A. I. Mellen, vice president; Mrs. R. C. Hoiles, secretary; Mrs. Howard Timmons, treasurer, and Mrs. Irvine, chairman of the board, with Mrs. A. G. Flagg and Mrs. George Briggs as board members.

The appointments for the luncheon tables yesterday were the Mesdames L. D. Coffing, Edward Hall, F. C. Rowland, Richard Coulsen, Howard Rapp, Emrys D. White, John Scripps and Edgar Elfstrom.

DOLL FESTIVAL IN RIVERSIDE

Miss Edith Hynds, who teaches a class in interior decoration in the Santa Ana adult education department, and who also conducts a university course at Riverside Inn on Wednesdays, brought back word this week of that interesting annual event, the Japanese Festival of Dolls, now in progress at the inn in Riverside.

The festival is to continue all this week, she states, and is open to the public, free of charge, on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. The other days it is open only to the hotel guests and those dining there.

A Fullerton home had its own little Japanese doll festival on Sunday when members of the adult education lip reading department went over to the home of Miss Anita Shephardson to see her interesting collection and to hear her talk on the significance of the dolls. Miss Ruth Bartlett is teacher of the class.

SETTLES HERE

A recent newcomer to the city is William H. Sandon, who has come from Winnebago, Minn., to live near his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sandon, and enjoy the acquaintance of his grandchildren, Billy (named for his grandfather) and Phyllis and Maryann. He is living on a small chicken ranch on West Fifth street, which his son recently purchased, and the children visit him daily.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK. (AP)—Steel strike fears lessened today as higher wages and shorter hours were agreed to by leading producers, and selected stock market issues surged forward 1/2 to 1 1/2 points. The steel industry was in the foreground of the move. Up more than 4 and topping 119 at the close, that for New York producers. There were profit-selling intervals, and in some instances extreme gains were reduced to a profitless level. Movement of losers also was in evidence. Except for a few, however, the gains were comparatively quick. Prices followed:

 Carlot auction sales averaged per box of California citrus were reported to the California Fruit Growers exchange on its own brands, and to the Associated Producers on others, as follows:

Reform the State Courts

WHILE the country has its eyes on the general subject of court reform, it is good to note that Los Angeles county superior courts of their own accord are adopting a system designed to speed up trials.

Lawyers for the opposing litigants will be asked at a pre-trial to come to written agreement over certain issues which both sides stipulate. This will weed out a lot of the bunk which barristers so often employ to delay and hamper justice.

As the situation is now, judges and lawyers fall over their own feet because of the excessive outworn procedure and legislation that clogs the courts.

This is especially hard on the poor man, since rich litigants can hire shrewd and politically influential lawyers to win the advantage of one delay after another.

And the big criminal—big in the sense that he has money, brains and "connections"—often can slip through the meshes of the law; while the little fellow is apt to get punishment beyond his deserts.

State courts need reform; there's no argument about that issue. It is good to see the reform movement being pushed by judges themselves.

One trouble with a cash-and-carry policy in wartime is that the worst scoundrel may have the most money.

For Safer Air Travel

NOW that Director Eugene Vidal has quit as chief of the Air Commerce bureau, let us hope that a successor is named who will pull the bureau out of its present inefficient mess and make the big airlines toe the mark on safety regulations.

There have been too many fatal crashes in the past few months to explain away by airy and vague references. Vidal's own reports show that there are frequent violations of government regulations and safety manuals. Yet only one case seems to have been referred to the department of justice for prosecution. This compares to 32 begun in pre-Vidal days.

Friends of the ex-director alibi for the mess by explaining that his hands were tied by politics within the department.

Be that as it may, the man who steps into Vidal's shoes had better be one who can put air commerce regulations on a just and non-political basis.

If aviation is to hold public confidence so necessary for progress, big airline officials must be made to toe the mark on safety, even though they have to be dragged into court.

County and school officials must think prosperity is really back. They've boosted taxes $525,000 in the past two years.

Stealing to Become Important

SIX schoolboys between the ages of 15 and 17 are under arrest in this county on charges of stealing automobiles. Why, you ask?

E. P. Mulrooney, former police commissioner of New York, has this to say about the desire which lures many boys into the road of crime:

The average young criminal of today is filled with ego, and his first request after arrest is for those lurid newspapers that make him out a hero. The disagreeable prospect of taking a "hot squat" in the electric chair seems remote, so long as he can gloat over his likeness sharing space with pictures of Babe Ruth, LaGuardia, Einstein, Lindbergh, Toscanini, or Roosevelt.

Those six schoolboys wanted to feel important. That's why they stole.

What a fine thing it would be if the parents and authorities could divert this hunger for importance in those young men from the field of crime to some worthwhile activity.

Most useful part of a radio is that little knob used to turn out poor programs.

Legislature Needs Watching

WITH some 3,900 bills ahead for action, the state legislature is now in session in Sacramento. Everyone of these bills, if passed, would directly or indirectly affect your rights, your job, your life, your community.

The Journal has been carrying articles designed to keep you informed as to what's going on at the state capital. It will print many more.

Any time you come across a bill or a movement which might have an adverse affect upon the rights of the people or would hurt Orange county interests, please let us know.

The motto on the U. S. silver dollar, "In God We Trust," should not be applied too literally to the actions of the state legislature. Even the gentlemen who make up that group are likely to be befuddled by a deluge of 3,900 bills. The session should be vigilantly watched by every citizen.

If President Roosevelt thinks the nine old men are senile, why didn't he say so last November?

Dr. Townsend's Punishment

SO FAR as we know there is no one in all of America who wants to see Dr. Townsend punished. Doubtless every one of the 12 jurors, who voted to find him guilty of contempt of the house of representatives for willful failure to comply with a committee subpoena, did so with reluctance.

Yet, while Americans as a whole will hope that the presiding judge makes the good doctor's punishment as light as the law permits, all of us have reason to approve a verdict which upholds the right of congress to carry out one of its most important functions—the function of investigation.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

There are not many of those dim-lit, brownstone fronts left. And the few remaining bear the window card

"Furnished Room." To my mind that is the well-nigh perfect title for a play perhaps by George Abbott. With Pauline Lord as the harried chateleine.

The rooming house was my haven in the formative days of New York. Characters to be found there are rarely seen in any other environment. There are seldom friendly contacts. Everybody remains in a shell. And for the larger number, life has them on the ropes.

The community postoffice, a silver plate on a table in the hall, drew most of us who wrote in eager anticipation. Perhaps a check from a magazine or an order for a Sunday feature. How often we approached with high hopes and left it wondering.

In those days the weekly prices ranged from $2.50 for a top flight and all the way back hall room to the $7 front parlor with the marble mantle. The front parlor couple was always exclusive. They never sat with the rest of us out on the front steps in the evening.

Racket: A tearful letter enclosing the writer's engagement ring. She must have $20 to save herself and her deserted children from eviction. The ring is a 10 center from Woolworth's.

Basil Woon is always popping up like a Jack-in-the-box in unexpected places. Floyd Gibbons once passed him plodding along on a donkey on the edge of the Gobi. Tommy Millard had to stop at a dingy crowded hut for the night back country in China. He found his roommate was Woon.

I know a now prosperous and estimable Kansas City business man—O, well, it is John T. Kennedy, if you insist—who in his earlier years was a drug drummer. One night while lodging in a frame hotel in a prairie town he was scorched by fire. He began to carry a safety rope for a window escape in similar emergencies. That was 30 years ago. Today when he goes traveling to California, New York or Europe, the rope is still in his luggage.

The Welsh rarebit is the most popular after-theater dish in New York night clubs and cafes. There is a special knack in turning out the rarebit. So much so the chef who rates high in the art is the most highly paid of the specialty cooks. Maurice Chevalier, who had a special yen for this dish, said that in the entire metropolis he found but four places where it became the dish it should be. And each one was crowded.

Another hard to get dish in Manhattan is the breakfast variety. This is Tad's favorite fried mush, thinly sliced and flakily done into a golden square. With a squirt of maple syrup and a rasher of crisp bacon this is a daisy in morning delicacies. Browne's old chop house specialized in it for years and among the regular fried mush customers were Nat Goodwin, John Mason and Wilton Lackaye.

Most cartoonists are facial connoisseurs. At the drawing board they try unconsciously to twirl their features into the likeness of the character they are portraying. Rube Goldberg's cheek muscles used to get tired before his hand left a crumpled, Tad could stimulate many of his cartoon folk and so can Billy De Beck. There are those who insist, too, that comic strip artists grow to resemble their brain children. They point to the likeness between George McManus and Dinty Moore and Bud Fisher to Jeff. The tyke in the Briggs cartoon always being told to "blow" is Briggs grown up. And the harried bald little man of the Don Herold cartoons is Don himself.

A Ring Lardner enthusiast in Enid, Okla., sends me a copy of a lyrical autobiography of the humorist. I was asked by request in one of his early books. Typically Lardner, it reads:

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—It is not news that one reason behind the President's desire to push through his supreme court reform is that a modified NRA is in the making.

It is news, however, that the rejuvenation of the NRA has caused a serious split among those whom Roosevelt asked to draft a new Blue Eagle.

The old NRA was drafted in the slap-dash, carefree days of early 1933, when anything whizzed through congress, and nothing ever was expected to bring a veto from the supreme court. Therefore it was thrown together in a few weeks.

The new NRA has been stewing for months. But the same old issues have risen to plague the drafters: namely, shall labor or business dominate, and who shall boss the new Blue Eagle?

Broadly speaking, there are two cleavages within the administration.

1. The Roper-Richberg group wants a revamped NRA code system under the command of the commerce department. Anti-trust laws would be suspended to permit trade agreements, and wage and hour standards would be fixed for labor.

2. The Perkins-Wallace group, including administration liberals, favors a minimum wage law and a 40-hour week, but is frigid to reviving codes and trade agreements.

HARDLY SPEAK

These two groups are so far apart that they don't even consult with one another. Although three of them—Roper, Wallace and Perkins—are members of the cabinet, they communicate with each other on this subject only through the White House. Each professes ignorance of what the other is doing. All they know about the other side, is what they read in the papers.

This situation came about after the President six months ago appointed these three—Roper, Wallace and Perkins—to a committee to study NRA files and write a review of the code results. A remnant of the old NRA staff was retained and $100,000 was set aside for expenses.

SURPRISE

Imagine the surprise of Secretaries Perkins and Wallace when their colleague, Mr. Roper, fired the staff, dismantled the offices (which were in his building) and pulled out the telephones—all before the NRA report was completed.

Imagine their further surprise when suddenly they discovered that cabinet colleague Roper had sent the report to the White House! They were supposed to be members of the committee, but they did not even get a peek at its final form. Both hastened to make clear that they were not bound by anything the report said.

AUTHOR RICHBERG

Chief author of the new Roper plan is Donald Richberg, successor to General Johnson as czar of the NRA. Its contents are divided into two parts, the first fixing minimum hours and minimum wages. These are to be created by a body of experts, and if any business firm fails to follow them, a cease and desist order is to be issued by the federal trade commission.

Second part of the Richberg plan provides that business may set up fair trade practice agreements or codes. These are to be supervised by the commerce department, and would be written only for big companies engaged in interstate commerce. No attempt would be made to regulate pants-makers, poultry dealers, beauty parlors, etc.

The latter part of the Roper-Richberg plan is severely criticized by the Wallace-Perkins group plus the liberals, because, they claim, it lets business write its own ticket.

The liberal group meanwhile contends that regulation of wages, hours and child labor is the only feature necessary in the new NRA. Miss Perkins proposes that administration of the wage and hour law should be in her own labor department. She wants the commerce department to have nothing to do with it.

NINE NEW CHAIRS

The nine chairs ranged behind the bench of the supreme court reflect the temperament of the nine justices.

The chairs are neatly made, but they do not match. They are as unlike as their occupants. They give the effect of being assembled, hit or miss, from a variety of furniture parlors. Reason is that each justice stipulated what kind of chair he wanted, and they were made accordingly.

The chair of Chief Justice Hughes is luxuriously upholstered in black leather—seat, back, and arms. It is a wide chair, could have accommodated the spacious foundation of the late Chief Justice Taft.

Of similar construction is the chair of Justice Stone, but with supplementary upholstery. Two leather pads are strapped across the back of Stone's chair, one to comfort his neck, one to comfort the base of his spine.

Most austere of all is the chair of austere Justice McReynolds. Completely lacking in upholstery, it stands bare and unadorned beside the sumptuous chair of his neighbor, the chief justice.

McReynolds' chair is distinctive also in being mounted on a swivel, which permits him the interesting distraction of swinging from side to side during a tedious dissertation. It allows him to turn the chair and rise from it more easily.

The differences extend even to the footstools hidden beneath the bench, some being square and plain, others double-decked and covered with cloth.

Each of the chairs is tagged in the back with a brass plate bearing the name of the justice. But this is superfluous. No one could confuse one with another, any more than anyone could mistake the bald pate of McReynolds for the flowing mane of Cardozo, or the delicate features of Brandeis for the broad Irish face of Butler. There is variety in the supreme court.

WHY NOT FERTILIZER, TOO?

To the Editor: In your editorial entitled "A Mississippi Authority" in which you advocate the harnessing of the Mississippi so that it can produce power, you mention several issues that would be involved, namely: Flood control, navigation, irrigation, electric power generation, etc.

May I suggest one more, namely: The manufacture of nitrogen for fertilizer.

If the TVA at Muscle Shoals can manufacture cheap nitrogen for farmers of the eastern states, why can't "Old Man River" and the Boulder dam be made to furnish cheap nitrogen for the farmers of the middle and western states, especially for the citrus industry of Southern California and Arizona which uses enormous quantities of it and which would use more if the price were not prohibitive and the quality poor?

This matter was taken up with the Hon. Elwood Mead a short time before his death and the writer was advised the subject would receive serious consideration by his department.

A new type of glue, which takes the place of nails in prefabricated houses now being produced commercially, fastens walls, roofs and floors to structural beams and studs, and does a better job than nails. This glue is said to be immune to wood boring insects, and is moisture-resistant. It is also said to be stronger than the wood it connects. Laboratory tests have shown these prefabricated houses to be more rigid than conventional structures.

One Man's Opinion

By R. F. PAINE

BY BALLOTS, OR ELSE?

After digesting the pros and cons issued from Washington as to President Roosevelt's effort to reform the federal judiciary, a good many newspaper readers must have arrived at the conclusion that the President is somewhat between the devil and the deep sea. Any reform that his congress puts through for him may be declared to be unconstitutional by the supreme court, and he looks upon a constitutional amendment as requiring too much time and labor.

It is hoping a great deal to expect that any act of congress opposed by the legal fraternity almost to a man will fail of submission to the U. S. supreme court and as to what five lawyers of that bench would do to such legislation the Almighty alone is informed.

As to the delay in ratification of amendments, the status of the child labor amendment is cited, it having been proposed by congress in 1924 and being still a considerable distance from adoption by the states.

The makers of the constitution provided particular and exact ways for altering the same, and the terms of those ways indubitably indicate their intention that no changes should be made save after due deliberation by the people and their full realization of their need for the same. If any mistake was made in their provisions for amendment, it was in not requiring action by the states by

One of the monthly magazines I read is "Westways," because I read it indirectly, and it's worth reading if you want another reason. So far as the farther west is concerned it is historically thrilling and presented with the beauty of a Pacific sunset. The articles by Carey McWilliams and Phil Townsend of Hawaii, the "isolated class" (you've got to use your imagination to substitute a c for a k in order to get an alliteration, but that doesn't make any difference to a fellow who wouldn't know a split infinitive from a preposition unless she was hitch-hiking) are gems strewn along the journalistic path which are only occasionally encountered. Elmer Heidt, the local manager for the Automobile Club of Southern California, is another reason for taking "Westways." He compels me to pay my subscription.

And I am not the public morals sleuth either, but it does seem rather a wide difference when you can pick up a few "kids" for pitching pennies, and do not bother the fellows who bet more than a million and a half on the horse races. But it seems the legislature legalizes one form of betting and penalizes another kind.

Friend comes in to tell me that again next Saturday there is to be another big horse race at Santa Anita. Temptation, stay away from my door.

March came in with the gentleness of a lamb. After what happened to us in January, and the element of disturbance of February, the mild manner of the March introduction was a real lullaby. If March comes in like a lion its arrival is supposed to be as peaceful as a lamb, and if the arrival is meek and mild its departure will take on the anger of a roaring lion. Having recently passed through a rather "unusual" and prolonged period of real tough weather we were more or less prepared for the March eccentricities, but if the first day is a sample, the weather man may continue to dish up the same kind of weather salad the rest of the month and it won't irritate me.

Can any good thing come out of Pomona? Floyd Young is sending out a few frost predictions. Floyd must be hard of hearing. I "hollered" enough long ago.

An old model car, parked in front of the postoffice, with the motor running and a few cylinders leaking. A few of the cylinders were responding in italics, and others seemed to be wrong font. But when the owner came out to get the car everything synchronized, he started for where he was going, and went that kind of a car I'm sure he arrived.

Met friend merrily rolling along to get a permanent wave, which she will have to have re-waved in about three months. Which convinces me that Webster didn't know what he was talking about when he gave us the definition of permanent.

And then a friend asked me if I had had the grove damage estimated. As if that had news wouldn't come along soon enough.

Chris McNeil is sick, and he told me he thought if he could get a look at me he would feel better. That has something of a left-hand compliment around it. However, I was going to submerge any objection I had to the inference, until I found out Chris has a dog about four times my size, so I sent with son-in-law my love, and I'll just keep my pants.

Third and Main, with Al. Honer either an unconscious or indifferent principal. Al. pauses for the boulevard stop. Party following blasts the horn for him to get going, but the traffic rules require a stop when the boulevard sign says so, and Honer, having a desire to see the family once more and attend to some unfinished business at the office, refuses to accommodate the impatient driver, and complacently waits for the north and south traffic to clear so he may proceed with some assurance that he will not be picked up by the ambulance crew. Here is the irony and inconsistency of the performance of the driver who wanted to push Al. into the danger zone. This driver did not go more than three car lengths when he turned south and then parked improperly in front of the furniture store. Sometimes I am ready to believe they should make some cars without horns, and then other times I am persuaded they should make some cars without drivers.

Oh, gee, guess I won't write anything more for today. Want to go out to the grove and sympathize with the oranges.
